Fund measure A: it brings the most children above the poverty line in 2027

To the regional cabinet. Servicio de Estudios y Evaluación, Dirección General de Planificación y Evaluación. 6 November 2026. Appraisal of the 2027 child poverty measures under the department's guidance of 15 October 2026.

Recommendation

Fund measure A, the Prestación Infancia Directa. Paid by the regional tax agency from January 2027 to families who filed a 2025 return with gross income under €28,000, it brings 3,700 children above the poverty line in 2027: 1,100 in Valmesura, 1,400 in Las Cuencas and 1,200 in Sierra del Alba.

Children whose household is below the line of €11,550 a year per equivalent adult without the measure and at or above it with the payments it receives during 2027 (guidance 3.5); ECVV 2026 households, 2025 incomes raised 6.1 per cent, grossed by the household weights. Figures are rounded to the nearest hundred, each province on its own (guidance 4.2).

Why not the higher Complemento limit

Raising the Complemento Familiar's limit to €10,800 (measure C) would bring 18,400 children above the line if every family it newly covers were paid for the whole year, which is how the proposals are costed. Families have to claim the Complemento, and it pays only from the month after the claim is decided. After the last limit rise, in April 2024, the families it brought in claimed slowly: by the twelfth month 28 per cent of them had claimed, against 62 per cent of the families entitled at the launch in October 2022. At that pace, C's payments in 2027 reach too few families for long enough, and C brings fewer than 3,000 children above the line in 2027.

The new claimed payments, B and D, would start the way the Complemento itself started in October 2022 and also stay under 3,000 children in 2027. E adds to families the Complemento already pays, most of them far below the line, and brings about 300 above it.

Basis

Claimed measures are counted only with the families who claim them, each paid from the month after its decision (guidance 3.9): claims for C arrive month by month as the families the April 2024 rise brought in claimed, claims for B and D as the families entitled at the launch claimed, each as a share of the survey's households in the band. The annex gives the Complemento's caseload in each quarter of 2025 and the ECVV 2026 fieldwork by province.
